

THD's Privacy Policy

At THD, your privacy is very important to us. We are committed to maintaining your privacy as well as your customer's privacy. As such, we take many precautions to ensure your personal data stays secure and confidential. This policy applies to current, former, and client's customers.

Confidentiality and Security of THD's Client's Personally Identifiable Information

THD does collect certain Personally Identifiable Information (PII), however, this information is only collected for the purposes of providing our services to clients. PII is never collected unless the information is specifically shared with THD. This information may include name, phone number, email address, address, etc. Any payment information that is submitted to THD is done so through a PCI compliant payment system. Please see Payment Agreement Policy.

All access to PII is restricted to and only accessible by THD employees and/or contractors on a need to know basis. Strict safeguards are in place to ensure this information is properly secured.

Information THD Discloses

THD never discloses any client information except what is necessary to secure reservations for our clients. THD never sells or transfers this information to third parties outside of the scope of services provided by THD.
